

Clayton is a dance educator and choreographer born and raised in Calgary. He started his journey with dance at just 4 years old here at Elite. He learned all styles of dance including Jazz, Hip Hop, Ballet, Tap, Modern, and Contemporary to eventually pursue a career in Hip Hop and commercial street choreography with Illfx Education in 2016. With Illfx Clayton has trained under the close mentorship of Edgar Reyes, Cody Jaxon, and Katherine Burrowes.

He has learned choreography and trained with many Internationally recognized choreographers such as Anthony Lee and Mike Song of Kinjaz, So You Think You Can Dance choreographer Luther Brown, the Director of HomeBase crew based in Australia Laurence Kaiwai, Founder and Director of Brotherhood and Studio North Scott Forsyth, and the founder of A3 District Roberta Bierman.

Clayton still competes at national and international competitions with Illfx but in the past 3 years has found a true passion for teaching and educating young dancers on the ever-evolving world of hip hop and its rich culture. Clayton pushes a fun-loving, hardworking, and energetic approach to dance.
