

Kyla is a sought-after teacher, choreographer, adjudicator and examiner. Her love for dance and sharing her knowledge has only grown since she started at the age of 3 years old. Her formative years were spent training in ballet schools and competitive dance studios in Okotoks and Calgary Alberta, as well as spending most of her playtime creating musicals for her family to endure.

Kyla has been sharing her love of dance with students throughout Western Canada for the past 17 years, teaching ISTD, RAD and Cecchetti ballet, as well as lyrical, modern, and contemporary. Kyla holds her Fellowship in Imperial Classical Ballet, and is proud to be an International Examiner for the ISTD. She also holds her Associate in Modern Theatre with the ISTD, Module One with Acrobatic Arts and Intermediate RAD qualifications. Continuing education is important to Kyla, and she continues to extend her teaching qualifications by attending courses in technique, injury prevention, cross training, and mental skills. Her choreography has received numerous accolades, and she is proud to have had students continue to professional careers in the arts, as well as attend prestigious schools including Conteur Academy, George Brown Dance College, Joffrey Academy of Dance, Simon Fraser University and Young Americans.

Kyla's expertise and critical eye have made her a coveted member on adjudication panels for competitions, festivals, and auditions throughout Western Canada. Recently, she had the pleasure of adjudicating the Senior Ballet Awards for both the UK and International heats.

Prior to becoming a mother, Kyla performed professionally for Luminare Dance Projects (formerly known as Trip the Light), and Calgary Core Contemporaries. Outside of the studio, Kyla holds a Bachelor of Science, majoring in Nutrition. She spends her days experimenting with recipes and exploring the great outdoors with her family.
